

Exposed Concrete

Here we offer our customers numerous options on their choice of exposed concrete. Our customers have the option of choosing the matrix and with its various shades of background colours, along with the size and type of our decorative gravels.

With exposed concrete homeowners are able to have the aesthetic appeal of a decorative aggregate but also have the favourable high strength obtained with concrete.

The advantage of exposure concrete is that it is maintenance free, issues of unwanted moss or weeds is not hampering the home owners, however similar maintenance to that of normal concrete is advised, so that one's pavement retains the admirable look. The cost implications for the owners is that the pavement will be more expensive than traditional concrete yet less expensive than paving.

In our offices we have samples from which the customer can choose from.

We can advise the customer on possible ways for them to prepare the ground for the concrete, paying particular attention on unsightly control joints which can be camouflaged by simple paving.

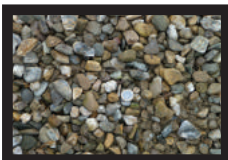

We offer a package where we supply, lay expose and seal the concrete and would be available for a site visit on request.
